Gentlemen:

On December 5th of last year, there were sent me from Paris "par chemin de fer une petite caisse contenant les moulages en plâtre des monnaies". I understand this to mean that the small box was sent by ordinary freight. I presume that it would come by your Company. May I ask if there is any way to institute inquiries at this side which may enable me to locate this little box, of which I am in urgent need?

It is possible that an incomplete address, or the failure to send it in care of an agent who would safeguard its passage through Customs this side, may account for the delay. Any information or suggestions which you may offer will be gratefully appreciated.

Very truly yours,

Secretary.
